ELECTRICITY AGE
HOME IS SHOWNWestinghouse Engineers Exhibit Model

MANSFIELD, O., March — (UP)—A model "home of the future," more completely electrified than ever before has been attempted, has been opened here for public inspection. These activities must be encouraged instead of prohibited.

It represents what engineers of 20 different departments of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company conceive will be available to the average householder five or ten years hence.

If all the switches are turned on at once, it represents electrical capacity equal to 324 servants at work, say the engineers. The house consumes 30 times more electrical energy than the average home of today, but the designers point out that already there is an over-production of power in the United States, and when the gi-gantic government projects now under way are completed the availability of low-cost power in homes should be practically limiless. The house is completely "air conditioned." That is, warm air in the winter and cool air in the summer is circulated through the house from a "weather room" in the basement.

The lighting is all "shadowless." Sunken panel lights around the windows will give the effect of daylight streaming in at any hour.

HORSE THIEVES ON MONTANA RAMPAGEPeace Officers Perplexed By Uprising

BOZEMAN, Mont., March — (UP)—A demand for horse flesh in southern cotton states is causing peace officers here to scratch their heads—and deride modernism.

During the last three months more than 70 cars of work horses have been shipped to Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, and Arkansas.
There an average horse brings a good price.

But officers believe many of the "critters" included in the recent consignments were stolen.

Ranchers in Gallatin, Jefferson and Broadwater counties have reported horses missing. Sheriffs have endured long night vigils, acting on "hot" tips, to catch the thieves.

"But not a one can we catch in the act," says Sheriff L. L. Westlake of Bozeman.

Today's horse thief, like every other criminal, employs a modern means to carry out his crime. A motor truck, a bright light, are all he needs.

Modern motor cars leave no tracks the officers may follow, as did the herds driven off by thieves of pioneer days, the sheriff says.

Canada Plans Production of Selenium, Now Imported

MONTRÉAL, March — (UP)— Production of selenium and tellu-rium, which now are imported into Canada from other countries on a large scale, will be started shortly at the Canadian Copper Refiners' plant here.

Selenium, which at present is produced only by one other Canadian company, has a wide variety of uses in the industrial arts. Tel-lurium is at present produced entirely outside the Dominion. Its uses mainly are associated with lead.

Up to now, consumption of selenium has been governed by controlled prices and the proposed increase in Canadian production is expected to reduce the price considerably as well as cause increased consumption.

Iowa Man, 84, Learned Typewriting Art At 70

LAKE MILLS, Iowa, March — (UP)—Few people learn to run a typewriter after 70. Ed Henderson, 84, Lake Mills historian, is one of these.

His method of learning the system is somewhat surprising, too.
Here's his story:

"If one operates the typewriter in the dark," Henderson said, one of necessity, operates by the touch system. So I sat in the dark and learned the touch system 14 years ago.

"It's come in mighty handy.
When a man gets to be 84, his hand is none too steady for pen or pencil."

Librarian Makes Pet Of Tamed Blackbird In Iowa

HUMBOLDT, Ia., March — (UP)—Miss Nellie Pinney, city librarian, has a pet blackbird, which she has fed and tended for eight years. At nesting time eight years ago, the bird fell and was injured.
Miss Pinney rescued it and protected it from cats until it became strong.

The bird then appeared to have developed a great affection for her, following her about the yard and garden and refusing to go south in the fall.

Cemetery Plot Owner
Seeks To Oust Intruder

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March — (UP)—When Victor C. Frazee went to the Thomas cemetery at Markleysburg to inspect the graves of his father and grandfather, he was very much surprised to discover that a stranger had been buried in the plot where he expected to be buried himself.

The interloper proved to be Eli Savage of Preston county, W. Va., and no one seems to know how he happened to be buried in this particular plot.

Frazee instigated proceedings to have the body removed from the grave.

Dog Buried For 8 Days
Rescued By Boy Owner

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., March — (UP)—A wire-haired dog, buried alive for eight days, was rescued here by his playmate, Jack, 13, yesterday, from death in a rabbit hole.

The boy and others searched for the dog for eight days without result.

While visiting a remote part of a neighbor's yard the English boy heard a faint whine which seemed to come from underground. He investigated and found a rabbit hole caved in. It was believed the dog pursued a rabbit too far into its hole.

U. S. INDIANS TO HAVE FULL RITES FREEDOMCommissioner At Capital Declares Tribes May Satisfy Desires
In Ceremonials

FORT HALL, Idaho, March — (UP)—Indians of the United States will be permitted freedom of religion and tribe ceremonies, John Collier, Indian commissioner at Washington, D. C., notified Fort Hall Indian reservation officials.

Many governmental schools located on Indian reservations are depriving their students of arts and crafts of their forefathers, the notice said. These activities must be encouraged instead of prohibited.

"The fullest constitutional liberty in all matters affecting religion, conscience and culture is insisted on for all Indians," the correspondence emphasized. "I have discovered that in some jurisdictions, it is believed by some Indians that they must secure permission of the agency before they may hold dance ceremonials."

SCHOOL BOARD IS SPLIT BY GRAMMARSplit Infinitive Leads To Argument

PHILADELPHIA, March — (UP)— A split infinitive has split the board of education.

A faction of liberalists to whom a split infinitive may be just one of those things that happen in the best of circles are opposed by Dr.
Howard McLennan, conservative grammarian.

The situation came to a climax at a recent meeting of the board.
Dr. McLennan announced that he had found grammatical errors in the minutes of the board.

"I found," he declared to the startled members, "a split infinitive! How, gentlemen, can such a situation exist?"

"Such glaring inaccuracies, appearing in documents which go out to the public under our auspices, are discredit to the board of education. Such grammatical mistakes are inexcusable in any case, but it is inconceivable that this body, representing the educational system of this city, should allow such glaring errors to appear in its records."

LIED TO JOIN ARMY,
MADE CITIZEN ANYWAYGerman Born Akron Youth Told Fib About Birthplace
While Enlisting

AKRON, O., March — (UP)—A white lie that German-born Emil William Kramer told about his birthplace in 1917 when he enlisted in the army, dogged him until he was almost afraid to ask Uncle Sam to make him a citizen.

When enlisting, he told officers he was born in Akron. "I had taken out my first papers at the time and I didn't think that was enough for me to get in the army," Kramer revealed.

"When I got back from the war, I was married and wanted to be naturalized, more than ever. But I told what I'd told up and was afraid to go ahead with it. I was somebody would say something."

His fears were allayed and Kramer is to get his citizenship papers.

Turkish Movie Stars Are Attacked By DervishesISTANBUL, March — (UP)— The film industry in Turkey had a most inauspicious debut at the holy village of Eyub on the Golden Horn at Istanbul. Enraged by the "unholy" makeup on the faces of the actors, and the operations of the camera-men, a group of Bekashi dervishes attacked the company. They were pacified without any serious casualties.

Standard wall calendars (without advertising) have been placed in each of the offices in the new Bay County building.

Horace Greeley, Drunk, Goes South—For Ten DaysWASHINGTON, March — (UP)— Horace Greeley, would-be disciple of the 19th Century publisher, has changed his itinerary.
Arraigned before police court Judge Schuldt on charges of intoxication, Horace was ask-"Young man, I thought you were to go west!"

"I missed the train," replied the worthy.
"Well," countered the judge, "in that case you are going south —for 10 days!"
